LEARNING AND TEACHING STRATEGIES

Domus Academy prioritizes an original “learning by designing” approach, that is in continuous development to reflect the fast changing world of today.

Through a series of events, titled Prototyping Ideas, Domus Academy explores new ways of doing design in the XXI Century. The events in the series run four times a year with each event debating a theme that is relevant to both local and global societies, and its perception through design.

The teaching methods employed at Domus Academy are designed to help students achieve their individual professional goals along with the learning objective, while also considering their roles as designers in our contemporary world.

The primary vehicle for the “learning by designing” approach is project work. Emphasis is placed on, learning and applying a “problem setting” approach;

- to ensure that students refine their critical skills and apply them throughout their work process;
- to foster a personal creative style and developing an original way of expression;
- to develop research skills, which will enable students to source relevant materials, assimilating and articulating relevant findings;
- to conceive concepts and visions capable to blend creative languages with the actual needs of end users by interpreting a brief, primarily based on a real design assignment, in order to design a project that can match, or even exceed, the company’s expectation.

Students are exposed to different points of view in the design field, working with designers and companies. One of the purposes of this exposure is to give students the broadest view possible of the design field in order to support them in the selection of the area in which to concentrate their future careers.

All Master programs are workshop-based, supported by seminars, tutorials, lectures, work-in-progress sessions, critiques and a series of tutor led projects. Through a pro-active relationship with the academic staff, students will lead their project work and be supported through consultative and advisory tutorial guidance by the faculty and by visiting lecturers and designers who each have dedicated roles.

The “Program Leader” is the teacher who has overall responsibility on a specific Master Program, and whose role is to coach students and to support them in the definition of their learning and professional path. The Program Leader sustains students in their workshop activities and coordinates the assessment process.

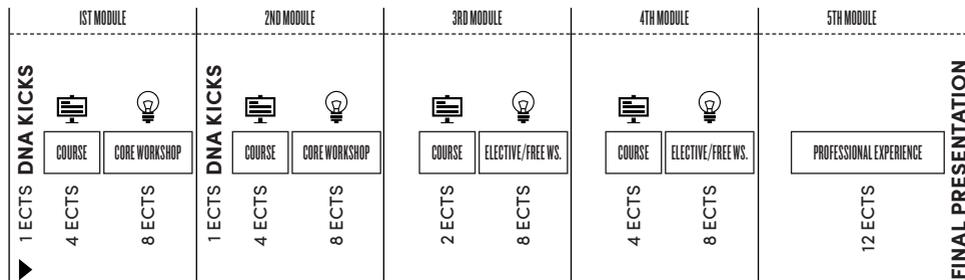

The “Project Leader” is professionals and teachers, chosen among experts of a specific field, whose role is to lead workshop activity, by developing a project brief in collaboration with the Program Leader, inspire and provide guidance to students along the design process, and to take part in the assessment of the projects.

Formal teaching is supplemented by a range of visiting lecturers and visiting professionals where students will have the chance to attend presentations by designers, artists, critics, industry professionals and academics. Lectures are usually used for the presentation and discussion of theoretical issues. They will often be supported by group discussions, which provide an opportunity for interaction between faculty and students, and allow students to extend and examine the issues raised.

Students work in multi-cultural and international teams to enhance their capacity for teamwork, as well as to expose them to a comparison with different backgrounds and cultures. Most workshop activities require students to work in groups. Teams are carefully selected and suitably managed to ensure that all students are aware of effective group processes and contribute to final project outcomes.

STRUCTURE AND ASSESSMENT

The program is organized in four main modules including DNA kicks, courses and workshops, followed by a fifth module providing a professional experience period and a final portfolio presentation.

DNA KICK

The DNA kicks are part of the Prototyping Ideas series and is charged through plenary lectures presenting themes that will be then developed by students in dedicated worktables. Each worktable is led by designers/design thinkers of several fields who support the students in prototyping new concepts and ideas related to a specific chosen theme. The DNA kick prototype ideas that is later used to frame the workshops at Domus Academy.

COURSES

Courses aim at providing students, through a combination of lectures, exercises and tutorials, with the appropriate tools and experiences useful for the developing of their professional career. They encompass specific topics in preparation for the workshop, and personal branding experiences for the development of the student's professional career.

WORKSHOPS

The workshops are the main activity of the curriculum. Workshops are project assignments designed to give students a working knowledge of different core subjects. All workshops launch with the presentation of a brief, which outlines the subject, scope, and purpose of the workshop. The brief of the workshops is based on research issues defined by the faculty, in collaboration with external professionals and industrial partners, paying attention to fulfil both educational and professional aims.

In the development of the projects students will be supported by lectures aimed at broadening their knowledge on the specific investigation theme, inviting designers, researchers, stakeholders and representatives of companies to present their work and ideas as a link between the specific disciplinary perspective and the broader cultural/economic context.

The workshop culminates in an open presentation to the faculty and invited professionals. Feedback to students is an integral part of the final assessment provided to students after the presentation. The Program Leader and the Project Leader are available to further discuss assessments with students if needed.

There are three kinds of professional experiences; an internship in a company where the students will be hosted in a work environment developing assigned real projects; a field learning experience as a specific work project carried out on campus in collaboration with a company; and an entrepreneurial journey in order to develop business and managerial skills.

PORTFOLIO

The Master Program will end with a final exam where the student will present his/her own portfolio in front of an Exam Board composed of internal faculty and external professionals. The portfolio realized by each student, and its presentation, allows the Board to evaluate the projects developed during the academic year as well as the growth of the student.

ASSESSMENT SYSTEM

The main goal of the assessment system is to monitor how students develop the design and technical competencies required to be awarded an Academic Master.

Assessment is done by evaluating each student with a 1 to 30 mark (pass 18 or above) given at the end of every workshop, and through a qualifying examination given at the end of each theoretical course. The admission mark to the final exam is calculated by arithmetic average, which takes in consideration all the marks taken after each workshop.

Students will receive 0-110 (pass 70 or above) as overall evaluation. The Diploma Examination Board may award up to 10 points for the Portfolio. Honors may be awarded on the basis of the Board assessment of study programs, portfolio and presentation.

STUDY PLAN

Students will receive individual study counselling by the Program Leader to establish a Study Plan that reflects their skillset and professional objectives with the academic offer available.

WORKSHOPS

CORE WORKSHOPS - COMPULSORY

FASHION BRAND MANAGEMENT WORKSHOP

This workshop aims to present in detail the dynamics of brand management and the various strategies to increase and nurture the value of fashion brands. Many fashion brands are diversifying into multiple categories (apparel, accessories, fragrances, beauty, watches and jewels, eyewear etc.) and are now present across various price segments, distribution and communication channels. The luxury power pyramid is increasingly complex, ranging from “ultra-high-end” at the top, characterized by bespoke craftsmanship and exclusivity, through “super-premium” and “premium core” brands, to “accessible”, “affordable” and “every day” luxury brands, which include traditionally high-street brands that have developed more aspirational messages, products and services. The workshop evolves around real-world briefs and ability to analyze a brand’s vision, core values, verbal and non-verbal DNA. Students learn to assess what stands at the core of the brand identity and space, to explore new business opportunities and build powerful brand “touch-points”, through new brand extensions, advanced brand content, refined brand image, while ensuring the highest consistency throughout the consumer experience.

FASHION BUYING WORKSHOP

The purpose of the Fashion Buying workshop is to give students an insider view on the key role of a Fashion Buyer; from professional competencies and essential retail strategy and operations to personal attributes. In the current omni-channel fashion retail context, buyers are accountable for ensuring that the store’s merchandise mix has the appeal to turn potential customers into shoppers, to maximize turnover and profit margins, and minimize the inventory risk. Students learn to identify macro-trends and upcoming fashion trends, through a deep examination of fashion catwalks, shows and presentations, to generate meaningful market insights. Based on the definition of the retailer target customer, students understand how to filter the existing offers, create a brand portfolio and define balanced groups of products that will compose an accurate range plan, within the assigned budget, to achieve the maximum the sell-through. Students finally suggest tailored services and communication ideas to support their buying strategy.

ELECTIVE WORKSHOP

One to be chosen among the following:

FASHION STYLING WORKSHOP

The workshop explores the cultural, social, aesthetic and practical aspects of fashion image-making. The workshop focuses on the strategic figure of the fashion stylist, as a professional who is able to build a visual narration through the development of an idiosyncratic vision.

Students are challenged to find inspiration from different sources: art, folk culture, movies, music, social issues, everyday news as well as fashion trends, to create a story for a real fashion editorial and or an advertising campaign, with a specific attention to digital publications and social media. Students are required to understand the magazine/brand values and audience to create images and videos that resonate with them. Students acquire a professional methodology to plan a real fashion photo/video shooting, which includes the selection of: photographer, location, models, make-up artist and hair stylist. Students practice the skills of art-direction, styling and production, to ensure that their story is conveyed in a consistent and powerful way.

DIGITAL LUXURY COMMUNICATION WORKSHOP

With an exponential rise of digital media platforms and channels, luxury brand managers are dealing with an extremely fragmented media landscape. Luxury brands need to adapt their communication strategies to each of those platforms, which implies declining their storytelling in multiple formats and with multiplicity. On one hand, they need to give their customers and audience a more personal and active role by inviting them to nourish brand-generated contents. On the other hand, luxury brands must guide the creation of those new contents and counterbalance with the production of innovative and authoritative ones.

The objective of this workshop is to support students in appraising effective and innovative digital communication strategies, which can be implemented by lifestyle and luxury brands. In particular, the objective is to design and execute communication concepts and plans focused on generating tangible business results (new customer acquisition and loyalty) and brand image and awareness (customer engagement and advocacy).
